What is your approach to your company's involvement in the community?

"United Heritage companies were formed by farmers in our communities 100 years ago for insurance protection. As a mutual company we remain dedicated to giving back to our communities that have been a part of our history for so long. We believe that active involvement in our community is an integral part of who we are, by giving of our time to worthy causes as well as financially partnering with local charities. We have also strategically employed more sustainable operations thru solar panels, LED lighting, and electric vehicles that will have an impact for the next generation."
